About Dibrugarh :

Located in Upper Assam on the banks of the Brahmaputra River, Dibrugarh is the second largest city of Assam after Guwahati. Dibrugarh shares its boundaries with cities like Tinsukia, Sibsagar and Dhemaji on the north, south and eastern sides along with the state of Arunachal Pradesh. Well known as the "Tea City of India", Dibrugarh is known for the production and possession of tea. Oil is another major industry here. Dibrugarh is a rapidly growing city in Assam and is gradually emerging as the industrial and communication hub in the Northeast. The city has a proper transport system and a number of tourist places to bound tourists to this beautiful city.
