Special Olympics Lions Club

Melvin Jones

While his service footprint has been made throughout the Washington, DC metropolitan area, his inspiration comes from the hills of Tobago, a small island nestled in the southern Caribbean. It was in these lush, green hills that Kester Edwards learned of the power, and impact, that local service can have on a global population. Thousands of miles from his hometown, Kester recently received a significant distinction from the world's top service club organization, and made history. As a charter member of the Washington, DC Special Olympics Lions Club in 2001, Kester Edwards has taken that inspiration and transformed it into a focused effort to ensure that community service is not just offered FOR individuals with intellectual disabilities, but also FROM them. His signature projects include dedicated support to food kitchens throughout the nation's capital, women's shelters, at-risk youth, and the local Special Olympics program. Fundraising, advocacy, hands-on service, connecting members in various jurisdictions, and inspiring the next generation of Lions, both in his Club and abroad- these are just a sample of the work that Kester Edwards has achieved in close to two decades as a Lions member.

Kester Edwards' story is one of millions, and at the same time- one of a kind. Kester Edwards has provided some of the strongest global service focus to Special Olympics athletes of anyone in the world today- perhaps most notably- because he himself is a former SO athlete. He is also a former SO coach, international member of the Board of Directors, and currently a formidable sport development expert.

His profile not only has inspired a generation of Lions Clubs members and SO athletes, but also the global executive leadership of Lions Clubs International. In the company of Dr. Timothy Shriver, Chairman of Special Olympics, Inc., Lions Clubs International Foundation

Chairperson Dr. Yamada, and a range of Special Olympics and Lions Clubs International Leaders, Kester Edwards received the Melvin Jones Fellowship distinction, recognizing his many years of service to the world of Lionism, and Special Olympics. He is the first Special Olympics athlete ever in the history of Lions Clubs International to receive such a distinction.

"I am proud to stand here before you as the first SO athlete to receive this distinction. My commitment is that I will not be the only, or the last," said Kester, at the Lions Clubs International Centennial celebration event, hosted by Special Olympics in Schladming, Austria at the 2017 Special Olympics World Winter Games. "I have been a solidier of Special Olympics for many years- most of my life in fact. And tonight, I commit to all of you at Lions Clubs International, I am now a lifetime solidier of Lions Clubs International."

The Lions Clubs International Melvin Jones Fellowship award is given to Lions Leaders who have an exemplary record of achievements over many years, and supports the ongoing global work of Lions Clubs International Foundation.

"Words do not capture the admiration we have for Kester's deep commitment to a more just and inclusive world for all," said Dr. Timothy Shriver, Chairman of Special Olympics.

"Kester is a role model - a man of physical strength, professional achievement, and enormous integrity. A role model not only because of the service he provides to others, but also because he is as a great colleague, dear friend, and strong advocate for change."

Kester continues to support his community by way of a range of projects, and has most recently been identified by Special Olympics and Lions Clubs International as a key driver of the youth activation work underway with Leos throughout the world.

"I have been blessed," said Kester at the Centennial event. "More athletes should be given the opportunity to serve, and that is now my mission: to make sure that I am but the first of many. That is inclusion in action."
