On Santa's Team Author Unknown

My Grandma taught me everything about Christmas. I was just a kid. I remember tearing across town on my bike to visit her on the day my big sister dropped the bomb: "There is no Santa Claus," jeered my sister. "Even dummies know that!"

My Grandma was not the gushy kind, never had been. I fled to her that day because I knew she would be straight with me. I knew Grandma always told the truth, and I knew that the truth always went down a whole lot easier when swallowed with one of her world-famous cinnamon buns. Grandma was home, and the buns were still warm.

Between bites, I told her everything. She was ready for me. "No Santa Claus!" she snorted. "Ridiculous! Don't believe it. That rumor has been going around for years, and it makes me mad, plain mad. Now, put on your coat, and let's go." "Go? Go where, Grandma?" I asked. I hadn't even finished my second cinnamon bun.

"Where" turned out to be Kerby's General Store, the one store in town that had a little bit of just about everything. As we walked through its doors, Grandma handed me ten dollars. That was a bundle in those days. "Take this money," she said, "and buy something for someone who needs it. I'll wait for you in the car." Then she turned and walked out of Kerby's.

I was only eight years old. I'd often gone shopping with my mother, but never had I shopped for anything all by myself. The store seemed big and crowded, full of people scrambling to finish their Christmas shopping. For a few moments I just stood there, confused, clutching that ten-dollar bill, wondering what to buy, and who on earth to buy it for. I thought of everybody I knew: my family, my friends, my neighbors, the kids at school, the people who went to my church.

I was just about thought out, when I suddenly thought of Bobbie Decker. He was a kid with bad breath and messy hair, and he sat right behind me in Mrs. Pollock's grade-two class. Bobbie Decker didn't have a coat. I knew that because he never went out for recess during the winter. His mother always wrote a note, telling the teacher that he had a cough; but all we kids knew that Bobbie Decker didn't have a cough and he didn't have a coat.

I fingered the ten-dollar bill with growing excitement. I would buy Bobbie Decker a coat. I settled on a red corduroy one that had a hood to it. It looked real warm, and he would like that. I didn't see a price tag, but ten dollars ought to buy anything.

I put the coat and my ten-dollar bill on the counter and pushed them toward the lady behind it. She looked at the coat, the money, and me. "Is this a Christmas present for someone?" she asked kindly. "Yes," I replied shyly. "It's ... for Bobbie. He's in my class, and he doesn't have a coat." The nice lady smiled at me. I didn't get any change, but she put the coat in a bag and wished me a Merry Christmas.

That evening, Grandma helped me wrap the coat in Christmas paper and ribbons, and write, "To Bobbie, From Santa Claus" on it ... Grandma said that Santa always insisted on secrecy. Then she drove me over to Bobbie Decker's house, explaining as we went that I was now and forever officially one of Santa's helpers.

Grandma parked down the street from Bobbie's house, and she and I crept noiselessly and hid in the bushes by his front walk. Suddenly, Grandma gave me a nudge. "All right, Santa Claus," she whispered, "get going." I took a deep breath, dashed for his front door, threw the present down on his step, pounded his doorbell twice and flew back to the safety of the bushes and Grandma. Together we waited breathlessly in the darkness for the front door to open. Finally it did, and there stood Bobbie. He looked down, looked around, picked up his present, took it inside and closed the door.

Forty years haven't dimmed the thrill of those moments spent shivering, beside my grandma, in Bobbie Decker's bushes. That night, I realized that those awful rumors about Santa Claus were just what Grandma said they were: Ridiculous! Santa was alive and well ... AND WE WERE ON HIS TEAM!

Here are some ideas for Christmas or all year round:

Socks of Love: Fill a sock with toothbrush & paste, gloves and other essentials with the other sock and tie with ribbon-donate to homeless or women's shelters.

Bedtime Bags for Children: Fill a soft carrying bag with a plush toy, blankets, books, toothbrush, etc and donate to homeless shelter or those going to foster care.

These are just two of hundreds of service projects you can do or do with your children or grandchildren or your club during Christmas or any time of the year.

For these great ideas, go to www.pinterest.com

May the spirit of Christmas stay with you throughout each day as you are Santa's Helper all year long!

Merry
Christmas

Words From VDG Glenn Swanson

With the holiday season in full swing, we all should give thanks for those we love and love us in return. What a complex world we live in with so much turmoil, from war to weather disasters. Perhaps the most important thing, we as Lions can do is help those in distress, and love those who are closest to us. As we were gathering for Thanksgiving, I couldn't help but think of those who have been left homeless in the Philippines or in our own country due to recent tornadoes. The Lions are always the first to send aid around the world. It makes me proud to be a Lion.

Had a chance to visit the Multiple District 25 Office last week and spend a little time with Council Secretary Billy Chastain. It looks like the brick project is moving along nicely. What a great idea for a Christmas gift for that "special Lion" in your house or someone in your club. For a hundred dollars you can give someone special recognition that will be a permanent remembrance in their honor. We as Lion's, are often so busy helping others that we fail to recognize those who are close to us. This not only benefits that Lions of Indiana but will honor a loved one who is dear to you and yours. Check the Indiana Lions web site and buy a brick today.

Lastly, let us not forget what the true meaning of Christmas is all about. As we watch and hear stories of "Black Friday" and "Cyber Monday", it makes you wonder what kind of world we are living in? Cherish the ones we love and live each day in hopes of a better world and an "after life" with our creator. Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!

Tips for Building Club Membership

Building membership is a year-round activity, as new members will always be needed to replace those that leave. Here are some tips to help build your club's membership:

- Plan a special Showcase meeting, an Open House, Model Meeting or Demonstration Meeting. Invite members from around the district to represent special projects. Invite guests and be ready to sign them up on the spot. Invite past members to come back and join the fun again! Review the names on your club's Charter and determine if there are relatives still in the area. Invite them to join!
- Conduct a membership drive on a yearly basis. This is a proven great membership-building program. Involve the whole club. Publicize BIG and at least 4-6 weeks in advance, which means planning needs to start several months in advance. Make sure you have plenty of guest packets and membership applications available at every meeting.
- Invite every guest to join. Many people are just waiting to be asked. Ask your guests if they know of anyone that might be interested and contact them.
- Plan a club membership-building contest. Consider challenging current members or other clubs in your zone and/or region to a membership contest. Consider awarding prizes to the member that sponsors the most or if competing against another club or region, as a prize, the losing club buys pizza for the winning club or similar.
- Make a list of all the people you know who would benefit from Lions and invite one person from the list to each meeting. Tell them you will stop by and pick them up for the meeting. Be sure to ask them to join.
- Have an information booth at community events. Call attention to your booth with balloons, and set out dishes of candy. Have a guest book to sign, and follow up with people who express an interest.
- Have a recognition program to acknowledge all members who have brought in guests.
- Make a list of the best things about your club. You now have a list of selling points to use when talking to prospective guests.
- Develop a mentor program. This will help encourage new members to keep involved with the program and will help long-term members renew their enthusiasm.
- Read and distribute your Lions newsletters to your members and even prospective members.
- Celebrate your club charter date/club anniversary annually. Maybe use this as your annual membership drive date.
- Make a point not to discuss club problems at your membership drive. Nobody wants to join a club with problems.
- Even if you have low attendance at a meeting, still have the meeting. Continuity matters! Yes, you and the team can make it happen! Contact your Region or Zone Chair immediately if you need help.

District A Bands Together

Lions of District 25-A, banded together to do vision screening for the Lighthouse Charter Schools of Gary and East Chicago, IN.

Together, this pride of Lions did vision acuity test on 425 students ranging from 1st to 5th graders in three days.

I would like to personally thank the Lions clubs of District 25-A who stepped up to help with the vision screening:

Dyer & St. John

On Wednesday, November 20th, the Dyer and St. John Lions Clubs held a joint Open House for the public. The Open House is provided as a way for the public to learn about all of the programs and activities that Lions is involved with. In addition, it's a great membership recruitment tool. Club members from both clubs helped as volunteers at the event and all club members were asked to submit names of individuals to attend the event. Invitation letters were mailed to approximately 100 people and several newspaper articles were published prior to the event. Despite the cold and rainy evening, there were 22 visitors who attended the open house and 18 Lions who volunteered (as well as 2 leader dogs) either to help set up, work the event or clean up. From the people who attended the event, both the Dyer and the St. John Lions clubs were able to secure several new members. The Dyer Lions grew by three new members and the St. John Lions grew by seven new members. Congratulations to both clubs on a successful event!

Portage Lions Sponsored Winning Peace Poster For District A!

As the council of Governors took their votes to heart, District A almost won for state. It took two rounds of voting and then our proud artist lost by 1 vote!

Thanks to everyone that worked so hard on this wonderful project. There will be several peace posters throughout the state on display at the Mid Winter Conference in January. Be sure to get your registration in to attend this outstanding learning opportunity and day of fun and fellowship.

Those that submitted posters will have them returned after the Mid Winter Conference.
