LIONS TALES

King Ozymandias of Assyria was running low on cash after years of war with the Hittites. His last great possession was the Star of the Euphrates, the most valuable diamond in the ancient world. Desperate, he went to Croesus, the pawnbroker, to ask for a loan. Croesus said, "I'll give you 100,000 dinars for it."

"But I paid a million dinars for it," the King protested. "Don't you know who I am? I am the king!"

Croesus replied, "When you wish to pawn a Star, makes no difference who you are."....

An old guy was working out at the gym when he spotted a young hot girl walking in.

He asked the trainer standing next to him, "What machine should I use to impress that girl over there?"

The trainer looked him up and down and said; "Sir, I would recommend the ATM in the lobby."

A woman walks into a butcher shop and asks how much a pound of tenderloin is. "Twelve dollars per pound", replied the butcher.

"Twelve dollars?" she retorts, "But that seems so high compared to other butchers in the area."

"Sorry lady but maybe they gave you a poorer cut of beef", he says.

The lady insists, "No, the butcher across the street said it was nine dollars per pound."

"Well then, why don't you go and buy it there?" asks the butcher.

"Because they're all out of it", replied the lady.

"When I'm all out of it, I sell it for eight dollars per pound", smiles the butcher.
