As the new year begins, many of you have made many resolutions for a brighter new year. For some, losing weight or eating healthy is the new goal. To do so, it is great to understand your body and the way it works. A few pointers to choosing the right path are 1) speak with a dietician 2) set up some exercise models 3) find a way to share this journey, either journal or friend/family. By doing this, each step for change in your dietary and fitness lifestyle will be noted in your body's physique.

Tips: (ADA)

1. Find an activity you enjoy and limit late night aerobic activity to prevent nighttime lows.
2. Schedule approximately 150 min per week (approx. 30 min/day 5x/week)
 0. Short 10 min aerobic intervals work as well
 1. Dancing, swimming, cycling are great aerobic activities
3. Track your progress to help with setting right goals.
4. Keep track of glucose levels before, during and after activity to prevent hypoglycemia.
