Well use a sample monthly chocolate sales report to demonstrate how you can count cells that contain text. Method 1 Using the COUNTIF Function to Count If a Cell Contains Any Text in ExcelSteps:Select Cell D17 to store the count result.Insert the following function: Formula BreakdownGeneral Structure: =COUNTIF(range,criteria)In the range section, we input C5:C14, which is the range of the column in which weve run the COUNTIF function.The criteria is an asterisk (), which is a wildcard that matches any number of text characters. Method 2 Adding up If a Cell Contains Any Text in Excel Using the SUMPRODUCT FunctionSteps:Select the cell D17to store the count result.Insert the following formula: =SUMPRODUCT(--ISTEXT(C5:C14)) Formula BreakdownGeneral Structure: =SUMPRODUCT(ISTEXT(range))In the range section, we input C5:C14, which is the range of the column in which weve run the SUMPRODUCT function.The double negative operator before ISTEXT converts Boolean values into numerical ones. Method 3 Using the COUNTIFS Function to Count If a Cell Contains Texts with Specific CriteriaSteps:Select cell D17 for the result.Insert the following formula: =COUNTIFS(C5:C14,"",C5:C14," ") Formula BreakdownGeneral Structure: =COUNTIFS(range,,range,)In the range section, we input C5:C14, which is the range of the column in which weve run the COUNTIFS function.The first condition is an asterisk (zero or more other characters), which checks cells that contain characters at all.The second condition is not equals space so were ignoring the cells that contain only a space. Method 4 Adding up If a Cell Contains Partially Matched Text in ExcelSteps:Cell C17 contains the match term Almond.Insert the following formula in D17: =COUNTIF(C5:C14,"&C17&*") Things to RememberThe COUNTIF function counts a single space as a text value.Be careful while inserting the range and criteria for each of the functions.
