How do I join a classroom as a student?

If you prefer learning with videos, check out this video tutorial:

1. There are two ways to join Albert. If you received an email from Albert, proceed to step 2. If you gave you the class code, skip to Step 4.
2. Open the email with the subject: "Your teacher has invited you to join a class".
3. Click the "Join Now!" link. You will be taken to the Albert website.
4. Log in to your account.
5. Click the "Classes" tab at the top of the screen. Note: At this point, you may prompted to fill in missing information for your account. Enter the requested information and click "Save".
6. Click the "Join Class" button in the top-right corner of the screen.
7. Enter the code supplied by your teacher and click the "Join Class" button.

Estimada Sra. Arias,

TABLE 1. EFFECT OF 0.1 mM CAFFEINE ON MEMORY IN BEES

| Treatment | Memory(average probability of revisiting a nectar source $\pm 2SE_x$ ) |                 |
|-----------|--|-----------------|
|           | 10 Minutes   | 24 Hours        |
| Control   | 0.72 $\pm$ 0.09  | 0.41 $\pm$ 0.07 |
| Caffeine  | 0.83 $\pm$ 0.07  | 0.78 $\pm$ 0.08 |

1. In flowering plants, pollination is a process that leads to the fertilization of an egg and the production of seeds. Some flowers attract pollinators, such as bees, using visual and chemical cues. When a bee visits a flower in addition to transferring pollen, the bee can take nectar from the flower and use it to make honey for the colony. Nectar contains sugar, but certain plants also produce caffeine in the nectar. Caffeine is a bitter-tasting compound that can be toxic to insects at high concentrations. To investigate the role of caffeine in nectar, a group of researchers studied the effect of 0.1 mM caffeine on bee behavior. The results of an experiment on the effect of caffeine on bees' memory of a nectar source are shown in Table 1.

Do your editions leave clearer and better organised sentences, paragraphs and passages? Do you understand how to organise information, support requests, use technical or flowery vocabulary and provide appropriate details? Use these questions as a stepping stone to improve your writing, and watch your essays become clearer and better organized throughout the year. The memories and biographies in this course will bring you into the minds, lives and experiences of individuals of all the different paths of life and periods of time. Consider: How do different writers use language and literary tools in time and in gender or socio-economic lines? How these works are used - selected from both classical and modern contexts - pay close attention to the rhetorical tools these powerful writers employ. From overload overload From emotion to the precision of formal logic to the channeling of a collective memory, the rhetorical mechanisms you will see in these pieces help to criticize, satirize and crystallize the writer's opinion.Explore the rhetorical techniques the authors use to break down complex scientific concepts in clear and beautiful language as read through these works ranging from the early 1900s In recent years, scholars have translated their research into recognizable works that unpack the social sciences for a lay audience. Analyze the diction and the tools they use to do so.The pre-twentieth century writings in this course will take you inside the minds of some of the greatest influencers in history. Consider: How do these pieces reflect the broader historical and social context in which they are found? How does a writer grab his readers? How does a speaker convince his audience? Review the basics of effective writing, from judicious use of rhetorical devices to different kinds of appeals to different ways of structuring a discussion. So, use our step-based practice to put this knowledge into practice, identifying the rhetorical devices in fiction writing and paying close attention to the rhetorical tools that powerful speakers use in their speeches.NOTE: The practical questions in this section are not necessarily in line with the most up-to-date edition of the exam and are better used as a competence-based practice rather than as preparation for the exam.
