How to unlock any android device. How to unlock find my device android.

Android owns a tool that helps you to locate and remote wipe your stolen or stolen phone. Usually, phones get locked through passwords or fingerprints or patterns in order to maintain the security, but think of a situation in which your phone gets stolen or someone tries to interfere with it. You can put aside all your fears and worries by just allowing Android Device Manager (ADM) to unlock your Android phone. All you have to do is to enable ADM on your phone. ADM is capable of unlocking your phone within a small amount of time, thus saving you from all the troubles. ADM also has the potential to unlock your password/pin-encrypted phone if you have by any chance forgotten the passcode. The whole procedure is simple because you just need a Google account to set this up on your phone and then you can use any other online device to track down your stolen or lost phone or to even wipe all data in it. Android Device Manager Remove Lock It has now become a necessity to set up a kind of lock screen security on your smartphone in order to prevent friends or strangers from checking out your private pictures or messages. This is also important because you don't really want anyone who dares to steal your phone to get complete access to your pictures, mails, or other sensitive data. However, imagine a situation in which you're the one who cannot access your phone. You could have probably forgotten your PIN or pattern. There could also be a scenario in which someone pranks you by setting up a lock screen pattern and just leaves you struggling with it. You can always solve these problems and even prevent them without smashing your phone against a wall due to utter frustration. All that you need is to enable the ADM on your phone before you locked yourself out of your phone. Enabling ADM is quite an easy process. You will have to go to google.com/android/devicemanager on your computer and search through your list of devices that have already been connected to your Google account. After arriving there, you will be able to easily send a notification to the phone you want to enable remote password application and wiping upon. ADM is available with a set of features that enables you to unlock your Android phone as well. Besides helping you to find your device, it also helps you to Ring it, lock it, and wipe and erase all the data as well, if your phone is stolen or lost. After logging into the ADM website from your computer, you can make use of all these options once your phone gets located. It is always to get your device locked by ADM in case it is stolen or lost, so that your phone is efficiently secured. Android Device Manager is capable of getting your phone unlocked only under a particular set of circumstances. First, ADM will have to be enabled on your phone before it is lost, stolen, etc. Secondly, the GPS option must be switched on in order to track your phone with the help of ADM. Thirdly, the device you are using for ADM, will have to be connected to the internet or Wi-Fi, in order to login to your Google account. Finally, ADM is not compatible for all Android versions. Presently, it is only compatible with devices running Android 4.4 and above, hence your phone must be in this category for ADM to work. How to Unlock Your Android Device Using Android Device Manager Stepwise procedure to unlock your phone using the ADM: Step 1. Visit: google.com/android/devicemanager, on your computer or any other mobile phone Step 2. Sign in with the help of your Google login details that you had used in your locked phone as well. Step 3. In the ADM interface, choose the device you want to unlock and then select "Lock". Step 4. Enter a temporary password and click on "Lock" again. Step 5. If the earlier step was a successful one, you will be able to see a confirmation below the box with the buttons - Ring, Lock and Erase. Step 6. You will now be able to see a password field on your phone screen. Enter a temporary password to unlock your phone. Step 7. Visit your phone's lock screen settings and disable the temporary password. Relax! The Android Device Manager has successfully unlocked your phone. Let's take a look at how to enable Android Device Manager on your phone. On a technical level, any phone running Android 4.4 KitKat and above is considered to be compatible with ADM, but it does not work by default since you will have to make some initial alterations in order to use it. In other words, you first need to enable the ADM, if you have not done it earlier. This can be achieved by the steps given below. Turn on Location Access: Go to Settings > Location, then turning on the toggle. Ensure that you choose "high" accuracy, as this is considered to be the best for finding your phone's location in an accurate manner. Enable Security Settings: Go to Settings > Google > Security and turn on the "Remotely locate this device" option. This permits the ADM to view your phone's location. Following this, you will have to activate the "Allow remove lock and erase" option. This is extremely useful in case you want to wipe your phone completely or lose your phone. Activate the Manager: Go to - Using your Google credentials, log in to your account and test it, by trying the location feature. In order to obtain efficient working of the Google Device Manager unlock including other features, you need to ensure that the GPS is turned on and you have an active Internet connection, whether it's via data or Wi-Fi. Always remember the operating system: if it is not Android 4.4 or above, the feature is not supported! Now think of a situation when your phone is lost or stolen and someone tries to misuse it. You can sit back and relax, knowing that you can use Android Device Manager unlock to provide the security for your phone. This article discusses how you can use Android Device Manager unlock to unlock an Android phone easily and you will also learn about an alternative method for this. Android Device Manager, also known as Find My Device or ADM, is developed by Google to help remotely find, lock or erase Android phones. It exists when you log into your Google account on Android. You can use it on website or download its app. Main Features Ring Phone With this feature, you can make your Android phone ring at full volume no matter you set silent or vibrate, so that you can easily find your device when you just forget where it is at home. Lock Device If you accidentally lose your phone, ADM can remotely lock it and send a message to it. But it can't be used to unlock the phone's screen. Erase Device In case you want to erase all the internal data on your device, then this is the option. You can also use this way to remove the screen lock on Android, which we will introduce later. These days setting up a security code for your phone is of utmost importance to avoid a situation where your friends or strangers get an access to your personal data. You can easily get out of such a situation with this wonderful tool - Android Device Manager unlock which comes with the feature of unlocking your phone in easy steps. Before you can use Android Device Manager unlock, there are some prerequisites that must be met. For this to work, you have to enable Android Device Manager on your phone and link it to your Google account. This can be done in the steps mentioned below. Turn on the location access on your phone by going to "Settings" and scrolling down to the "Location" option and then enabling it. From the "Settings" option, select "Google" > "Security" to turn on Find My Device. Push the slider to the right on both "Remotely locate this device" and "Allow remote lock and erase". Open your web browser, and navigate to Android Device Manager and log in using your google account details. Check if it is locating your phone. Through these steps, the Android Device Manager remove lock will be enabled on your phone. Besides, to successfully start unlocking, you also need to ensure your Android is turned on with wifi or mobile data, and is signed in to the Google account you use as well. How to Use Android Device Manager Unlock If you have enabled the Android Device Manager unlock screen on your phone prior to forgetting your passcode, you can use this feature to unlock your locked phone by following the steps below. Take another PC or phone and open Android Device Manager website on the browser and use your google account details to sign in. Select the device which you wish to unlock and click on "ERASE DEVICE" option. This will wipe your Android device without having any pattern/password lock. In case you have not enabled Android Device Manager on your locked phone or the Android Device Manager is not available due to some reason, you need not worry. Tenorshare 4uKey for Android is a useful software developed to easily perform the unlock on your phone. You can do this by following the steps below. Download and install Tenorshare 4uKey for Android on your laptop or PC and then connect your locked phone. Launch the program and wait for it to detect your unlocked phone. Click on Remove Screen Lock > Remove Screen Lock > Start to remove the security passcode on your locked device. Simply press Yes when you get a prompt to wipe out your entire data and enter Recovery Mode. You will have to restore the required data with the phone's backup. After you get into Recovery Mode, head over to reboot your device system. After that, you will successfully remove the screen lock on your locked Android phone. You can surely unlock phone using Android Device Manager but the Tenorshare 4uKey for Android software offers a much more efficient and easy alternative to this method which can be conveniently used by Android device users. It is always recommended that you create regular backups of the phone data as during such situations you will end up losing all the data and won't be able to recover it unless you have a backup.
